

Relationships matter

Relationships are at the heart of care – with family, with friends, with staff, and with the wider community.

- Families are not just visitors – they're partners in care.
- Friendships within the care home reduce loneliness and build a sense of belonging.
- Staff who know people well bring warmth, trust and familiarity, enriching everyday life.
- Community connections help people stay involved and remain part of the world around them.
